Pineville to Descend on Middlesboro Like Avenging Army.

"SHALL NOT PASS"

New Bleachers to be Erected On Local Field to Care For the Immense Crowd Which is Planning to Attend,

"Swing 'em high Swing 'em low Come on Middlesboro, Let's go"

They are tuning up If you hear unusual noises anywhere at anytime don't be alarmed; its only the High School tuning up for the game on Thursday.

You see the little red badges in the button holes of the men's coats almost everywhere. It means that they have already bought a ticket for the game. If you haven't bought buy now. There is going to be a crowd and don't put it off until the last minute. There will be a rush Thursday.

Pineville will occupy the East side of the Park A gate will be open at the South East corner of the Park and room enough for one line of Pineville cars to park inside. Middlesboro will occupy the West side with only room for one line of cars inside. Extra bleachers have been arranged for so that the seating capacity will be increased for several hundred more.

The Pep meeting which was announced for Wednesday night has been changed to Tuesday night. This is for two reasons. The first is that Wednesday night is Prayer Meeting in all the churches and the school authorities have never put on anything that would conflict with the churches program. The second reason is that anything decided on at this meeting will have to have a little time to put it into execution.

Pineville is going to turn out in full force. They'll be here in vast numbers with a noise that will echo thru Cumberland Gap. Where are you Mr. Middlesboro citizen?

The writer takes the stand that our boys are neither race horses, nor game roosters. They are both game and fast, but don't put them in a class with these other animals that men bet on

The cheer leaders ask that the crowd learn this song which is Middlesboro's way of answering Pineville's noise:

To the tune of Washington and Lee swing—

"When Middlesboro High's boys fall into line
We'er going to win again another time
And when we yell, we yell, we yell, and yell
For dear old high school boys, we yell ,we yell, we yell.
And then its fight, fight, fight, for every yard
We'er going to hit that line and hit it hard
We'er going to roll OLD PINEVILLE in the sod
In the Sod-Rah, Rah, Rah".

His Reward

Negro Wanted for Sebree Slaying Sunday Morning

Was In Madisonville Yesterday and Visitted Uncle.

CRIME CONNECTION

Thought to Have Been the Same Man Who Killed Rollie Zaker at Wheatcroft a Week Ago.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Nov. 24.—Ulysses Williams negro, who it is alleged to have slain Joseph Edwards at Sebree, Ky., early on Sunday morning, spent several hours at Madisonville yesterday, it is believed and is now enroute to Chicago Heights where he was formerly employed, local police learned today.

Effort is being made to connect Williams with the killing of Rollie Baker at Wheatcroft, which is situated in the same county as Sebree, a week ago Saturday.

Jim Williams, an uncle of the fugitive, said that his nephew told him that he was in trouble at Wheatcroft. A gun and a gold watch believed to have been stolen from Edwards, was in possession of Williams while in Madisonville, police learned from his uncle and from a cousin where Williams stayed for seven hours.

SEBREE, Ky., Nov. 24 —A trail of blood led a searching party of 100 to a thicket near the outskirts of town early today, where the body of Joseph Edwards, 67, an interior decorator of Meridian, Miss. was found with the skull crushed and a bullet through the brain

Edwards arrived on the midnight train and a negro volunteered to show him to the home of O. A. Scott, his brother-in-law. When he did not arrive according to a previously sent telegram a search was instituted.

A coroner's jury accused U. S. Williams, a negro, of the murder. An armed posse hunted him all day but without success

Resignation Of Egyptain Cabinet Is Accepted

To Prison

British Forces are Ordered to Occupy the Alexandria Customs.

FIRM MEASURES

This is the First Measure to be Taken by the British as a Result of Egyptian Non-Acceptance of Demands.

CAIRO, Nov. 24.—Lord Allenby, British high commission, at noon today informed the Egyptian premier Sagloul Pasha, that instruction had been given to the British forces to occupy Alexandria customs.

This he said is the first measure, taken in consequence of Egypt's none too quick acceptance of all of the British demands following the assassination of Sir Lee Stack. The Egyptian cabinet headed by Seaglou Pasha resigned immediately afterward to King Faud who accepted the resignation.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP) — Events moved swiftly in Cairo today and the Egyptian government has to a large extent complied with Great Britain's virtual ultimatum, embodying a series of stern demands in the way of reparation for the assassination of Major Gen. Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of the Egyptian army. Premier Zagloul explained in a secret session of parliament last night, the lines of his proposed reply and having obtained a vote of confidence, he today delivered a note to Viscount Allenby, the British high commissioner, agreeing to apologize, punish the criminals and pay the required indemnity of 500,000 pounds sterling. The premier's note was couched in polite terms but it refuses to shoulder responsibility for the assassination and regarding the minor British demands argued that they either ran counter to the Egyptian constitution or were matters to be dealt with by diplomatic methods. He also remarked that the most liberal policy compatible with the principle of independence had been adopted toward foreigners, and that no observations had been received from other foreign powers.

Thus although the affair has been brought to a point where it is hoped a serious crisis involving the employment or threat of force has been avoided, the position still contain seeds of great danger.

Taking into account Zaglou's past activities and strong nationalist views on which he based his policy he could hardly, have he could hardly have yielded straightaway on the points on which, his reply refuses compliance without endangering his government and disappointing his followers. On the other hand, these are just the points of prestige on which the British government is likely to prove immovable.

Among government officials in London it is conteded that the British demands concerning Sudan are designed and justified in order to protect Sudan from hostile attacks upon its peace arising from Egyptian propaganda.

Cabinet May Resign

CAIRO, Nov. 25. AP)—The cabinet still was deliberating at 11:30 last night. It was understood that the minister at that time were divided on the question of resignation.

It has been arranged that British troops, with 500 Blue Jackets from H. M. S. Valiant, will parade Alexandria tomorrow.

Lady Stack and her daughter are leaving for England immediately. It is reported that several accomplice in the assassination of the sirdar has been arrested.

Indemnity Fixed

LONDON, Nov. 25. (AP)—The British government here declares that the indemnity of 500,000 pounds demanded of Egypt subject to provisions of action for the victim's families, be applied to government loans for irrigation purposes for which Egypt is responsible to Great Britain.

Proclaims November 27 A Day Of Thanksgiving

FRANKFORT, Nov 24 (AP)—It is a solemn obligation for all Kentuckians to suspend work, dismiss care and all influences that blight or even disturb the quiet mind and trustful heart on Thanksgiving Day, Governor Fields declared in a proclamation reading:

"To the People of Kentucky.

"Since the days of revered and renowned Pilgrim Fathers, we, a National have brought honor to ourselves by observing one day in the year as a day of Thanksgiving to the Giver of all good and perfect gifts for the manifold blessings that are common heritage.

"During the year that is gone we have been the recipients of unnumbered mercies and untold blessings. We have been spared war, pestilence and famine. Peace reigns within our borders and contentment in our homes. The field and the forest, the orchard and the vineyard have generously responded to sunshine and shower and Mother Earth—that fruitful source of all our raiment, life and food—has put forth a munificent yield, a bountiful harvest.

"In keeping with the praiseworthy action established by our forefathers three centuries ago, in conformity with the Proclamation of our nation's Chief Executive, and in grateful acknowledgment and thankful recognition of the liberal bounties which have rewarded our efforts and crowned our days, I hereby set aside and proclaim Thursday, November 27, 1924 as a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

"I earnestly enjoin the people of our beloved Commonwealth with solemn obligation of suspending all ordinary business affairs, the abandonment of the toil the dismissal of care, the removal of all influences that blight or even disturb the quiet mind and trustful heart,

"I would further urge the sacred duty of assembling in our accustomed places of worship, there to enjoy a period of retrospection and introspection, to render to God the homage of our hearts and our profound gratitude for all His Goodness and loving kindness. I venture to recommend that in our peace and prosperity we forget not those who are less fortunate, and that we pray we may be delivered from greed, avarice, selfishness, and all other evils that would tend to bring a reproach upon us as a Christian people."

WHEAT SHOWS VITALITY

BRIGHTON, Eng., Nov. 24. (AP)—An archaeologist digging in Sussex recently found the fragments of a cooking pot used by the wife of an early Briton about 700 B. C. In a crack of one fragment is a grain of wheat, said to be in perfect condition.

ATTEMPT TO FIND HISTORIC PAPERS

Made Attempt to Locate Records of Confederate Sailors Who Served In the Civil War.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 24—Gov. Fields has called upon every citizen of the Commonwealth to cooperate in the movement that has been inaugurated for the purpose of locating and rescuing records of the more than, six thousand sailors who served in the Confederate navy during the Civil War.

"Our attention has but recently been called to the fact that there were more than 6,000 sailors who served in the Confederate navy during the Civil War," he said, "that when the city of Richmond was evacuated, the records of their enlistment, their terms of service ,their orders of discharge were all destroyed, thus rendering it very difficult for their dependents and survivors to obtain the pension justly due them, or to gain admission into the Confederate Homes maintained in the various states of our Southland.

"Confident that many of these records may be found in the homes of the descendents of these men, within the borders of our Commonwealth ,or information obtained that would ultimately lead to their establishment, I call upon every citizen of our state to cooperate in the movement that has been inaugurated for the purpose of locating and rescueing these valuable documents and records-a movement now headed by Admiral A. O. Wright.

"I earnestly request that all municipal and patriotic organizations and societies of Kentucky render every assistance within their power to Admiral Wright and his surviving shipmates in this effort; that all custodians of public records of the several counties make a thorough investigation in order to ascertain whether a Confederate sailor ever lived in their particular locality; if so, to report the same to the proper authorities; and that appropriate methods be employed to raise the funds necessary to carry on this worthy work.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 24. (AP)—The shortest time specified in the last letting of road contracts to be made next week by the state state highway commission for completion of the projects is given at 275 days in the blue print prepared by the department of state roads and highways.

To Develop Water Power In Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 24. (AP)—New York engineering concern has made two important local development proposals to the Bulgarian government. One is to provide Sofia with a plentiful and constant supply of water, and the other to apply American irrigation methods to the fertile but dry plains of Tatto-Pazrdjik.

FIELDS MAKES PUBLIC STATEMENT

Retrenchment Program of the State Highway Commission Receives Governor's Endorsement.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 24. — The state highway commission's retrenchment policy was endorsed today in first public statement since the election.

The governor said that the state highway commission cannot award more contracts for road construction and meet obligations now outstanding for road construction already completed or for which contracts have been let.

"The administration's acceptance of the pay as-you-go plan for public improvement is pledged," the governor said, "and if any citizen of our commonwealth can suggest feasible method for financing these needed improvements, I shall gladly give the same suggestions my unstinted support."

French Car Makers Change Body Styles

PARIS, Nov. 24. (AP)—Long legs finally have overcome tradition in the French automobile. Until this year the body with liberal room in the driver's seat has been rare.

"We've always known the driver was cramped," said one of the leading factory's representatives recently, "but what would you have us do? In the first cars the driver sat up straight. Later the manufacturers built the body for a short chauffeur, and with most of the room in the back for the owner and his friends Someone then adopted the standard of about five feet four as the height of the driver, and this has been maintained. Many people complained, but the practice continued except where the owner ordered a special body and had it built so he himself might drive. But now foreigners, particularly Americans, have presented a strong argument, and it has been a simple matter to make the change so that leg-room in front is no longer a sign of the car's price."

Germany Again Uses American Material

HAMBURG, Nov. 24. (AP)—American cedar for cigar boxes is again being brought to Germany after an interruption of more than ten years. During the war the Germans made cigar boxes chiefly of a paper composition.

After the armistice, when the mark began to tumble the trade could not afford American cedar, but with the virtual stabilization of the mark the manufacturers have been able to bring the wood from the other side of the Atlantic. The cigar business, and the cigar box factories, at present report a splendid business.

ARE WOMEN ACTUALLY CITIZENS?

If anyone has seriously questioned the political status of the women of the United States since the adoption of the amendment to the Constitution extending the privilege of the franchise to them, surely that doubt has been removed by the results of the recent election. In Texas, for instance, where the right of women to vote has not been contested, a legal battle was waged by those opposed to the choice of Mrs. Ferguson, the Governor-elect, in an effort to obtain from the courts a ruling that women, although qualified to vote, are not, in the absence of special enabling legislation, authorized to hold the office of chief executive. The contention of ineligibility was based upon the wording of the law defining the qualifications and duties of the governor, which invariably used the pronoun "he" instead of the qualifying phrase "he or she."

Of course, the outcome of such litigation was forecast from the first. The courts seldom quibble over such a provision when it is made clear that the qualifications and limitations imposed apply to an incumbent or candidate, no matter of which sex. But despite the fact that it may now be conceded as a settled proposition that women are eligible for whatever public office they may seek, or to which they may be chosen, the newly enfranchised citizens have not, as a unit chosen to accept all the duties and responsibilities of citizenship. In many of the states of the American Union, the law imposes upon citizens of voting age, unless by express terms exempted therefrom, the duty of paying to the municipality in which they reside an annual poll or head tax. These laws, originally, were of course, applicable only to male citizens. But would not the same reasonable construction of the law made by the Texas Supreme Court apply to the intrepretation of the poll-tax statute.

In New Hampshire, recently, a woman permitted herself to be lodged in jail as a protest against the demand that she pay this tax. The amount was later paid by a sympathetic friend and as a result the issue which it was attempted to raise was not decided. If the law in itself is reasonable and just, it must appear that it is general in its application and that it thus imposes responsibility on women of voting age as well as upon men.

But even those who submit to the provisions of this law do not always do so gracefully. The logic of the enactment, as old as the hills, almost, has never been quite clear. It is the experience, generally, that the poll-tax levy is made up from the lists of voters. For this reason, no doubt, many citizens have attempted to evade the levy by failing to register as qualified electors in the town or cities where they reside. Thus, and to the extent to which this responsibility has been evaded, there has been a penalty placed upon the enjoymnt of what is declared to be an inalienable privilege.

It has been estimated that less than one-half the qualified voters in the United States avail themselves of the privilege of taking part in state and national elections. Now conceding thee necessity of collecting the revenues derived from this poll of har tax, would it not be more logical to impose it only upon those who, when qualified, fail or refuse to vote? Instead of placing a penalty upon patriotic activit, it might be wiser to reward the voter and penalize the non-voter.

The American women who reasonably insist that their legal rights should be observed adn safeguarded might, instead of seeking, by subetrfuge or otherwise, to exempt themselves from the unpleasant duties while seeking to enjoy the greater privileges, set about the task of inducing their state legislatures to revise the poll tax laws wit a view to including in them some such provision as that outlined. Many men and women, too, who would not sell their vote for $2 or $5, will go to the polls if by so-doing they can save that amount.—Christian Sciene Monitor.

GETTING THE RANGE

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — The "short-haired woman in politics" so generally predicted during the years of suffrage agitation and campaigning, has not materialized.

At least she has not materialized as the woman who gets elected to office. She may be more active in agitating for the election of women, she may be the one who keeps things stirred up, but it is the long-haired ladies who are found to be victorious when the votes are counted.

Without exception, no woman elected to high office since woman suffrage was adopted has had short hair. Whether that is just happenso, or whether this result is due to a clearly defined preference on the part of the voters for women who retained their long locks, no one can say for sure.

Perhaps it is simply another evidence of our conservatism, this choosing for public office of women who hold to the conservative, dignified, old-time coiffures as against the modernist "progressives" who wear their hair cut short.

* * *

MISS JEANETTE RANKIN, first woman to sit in Congress, wore her hair drawn straight back in a rather severe, spinsterly coiffure. "Aunt Alice" Robertson drew her gray hair into a tight little knot, in the style affected by the grandmothers of the modern bob-heads.

Mrs Winifred Mason Huck and Mrs Mae Nolan were less severe in the styles in which they wore their hair, but the point is, they wore it long.

"Grandma" Felton of Georgia, "senator for a day," violated the traditions of the old south by participating in politics, but she held inviolate the tresses of her girlhood.

So, too, do Mrs. Mary Norton and Mrs Mary Burton, who will sit in the sixty-ninth Congress.

And if this perfect score for the long-haired women in national politics is not convincing as to their ascendancy over the bob-heads in politics generally, then consider the first two women to be elected governors.

Neither "Ma" Ferguson of Texas nor "Our Nell" Ross of Wyoming wear theirs short. If they did—who knows?—they might not have won election.

For, as Coolidge's 13,000,000 plurality proves, the mass of American voters are at heart conservatives.

* * *

THERE seems to be some sort of affinity, political or otherwise, between the United States navy and the Roosevelt family.

To fill the vacancy as assistant secretary of navy, caused by the resignation of Theodore Jr., who quit the job to run for governor of New York, President Coolidge has appointed young Theodore Douglas Robinson of New York, a cousin of Theodore Jr., and a nephew of the original T. R.

Robinson's mother, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, was the youngest sister of President Roosevelt. His wife was herself formerly a Roosevelt, being a distant cousin.

With Theodore Jr., Roosevelt, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Theodore Roosevelt Jr. and Theodore Robinson all serving as assistant secretary of navy in a span of little more than 20 years, it might appear that this post is in danger of being entailed in the Roosevelt family. Certainly no such continuity of service in any similar office can be found for any other one family.

Of equal interest to the appointment of young Robinson to this post, however, is the question of how it affects the likelihood of Theodore Jr. being handed the naval secretaryship for President Coolidge's next term.

Until now, this has been considered most likely. But the placing of both naval secretaryships in one family seems hardly likely. Certainly it would be poor politics.

STATION W M H IS DESCRIBED BY LOCAL MAN

Ainsworth-Gates Plant Inspected by C. L. Umberger.

STATION ON HILL

Phenomenon of "Dead Spots" In the Building Puzzles the Keenest Minds of Radio Brotherhood.

The Middlesboro Radio Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at Motch's garage. All members are urged to be present.

Broadcasting Station W M H was designed by Mr. Gatter of the Ainsworth-Gates Radio company and was built in their own shops under the supervision of Mr. Gatin. It is located in the Ahus Hotel and is called the station on The Hill.

The first entrance is made at the reception room which is approximately 30 x 30 feet. The furniture consists of a library table, a chair, and located on one side of the room is a mirror which reflects the spacious hall room.

Next in order is the studio, which measures 26 by 28 feet. The walls are draped in crimson velour. The ceiling is false; it is made up of glex broad cloth in a beautifully fluted design. The only furniture is a piano, a settee, two chairs, a desk and a microphone. A large white chandelier hangs in the center. The announcer's desk is equipped with a microphone and small colored lights with which he signals the operator and also the artists. The acoustic properties of the studio are excellent for solo, choral and orchestral work.

The most interesting part, the operating room, is located on the third floor and is approximately 15 feet square. It is kept very immaculate and occupies a minimum of space. The antenna is inductively coupled to the oscilator, but let us cause here, and follow the voice and ascertain how it reaches the antenna.

We speak into the microphone which is a series with a battery, and then into a transformer, next to a regular 201 A receiving tube, then thru four stages of transformers coupled amplifier using 216 A tubes and then into a 50 Watt tube. All this amplification is required before the signals from the studio are ready to be thrown on to the transmitter proper. The voice enters the modulator tube. This tube is about six inches long and two inches in diameter and is known as the water cooled tube. From the modulator the voice enters the oscilator and from there into the Antenna, the filmeter and plates of all the tubes. This station is operated from storage batteries and several different voltages are required on the different currents drawn by the filiments. The oscilator and moinitor tubes draw 50 amperes each and 2,000 volts are used on their plates. They are rated at 750 Watts each. The antenna current output is 650 Watts.

The antenna is a fan 75 feet in diameter. It consists of 1,000 feet of wire. It is composed of seven strands of wire and each strand is composed of 14 number 22 enameled wires and comes to a common "lead in". The counterpoise directly under the antenna is similar mounted horizontally, directly under the antenna 30 fe t high.

The intensity is so great that with a receiver in the operating room six of ten amperes is on the receives antenna while the transmitter is going. Also you can tune out W M H and bring in W L W in the operating room. A super heterodyne distant station may be tuned in while broadcasting. Last but not least there are dead spots in the building where their own station cannot be heard. One of these is about 35 feet from the operating room. No reason has yet been found for this pecularity.

The most important radio broadcasting test in the history of the art will take place every night from November 24th to 30th inclusive. Every listener in this country, or the entire world for that matter, will have an opportunity to take part in the test. There is no need for you to use special equipment. The receiver you are now using will do.

On each of these night from 10 to 11 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, which will be 9 to 10 Central Standard Time, all the broadcasting stations in Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico and the U. S. are going to put on special programs for listeners in Europe, Australia, New Zealand and other foreign countries.

During the next hour each night from 10 to 11 Central Standard Time all the foregoing stations will remain silent in order to permit listeners in Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico and the U. S. to hear special programs from the foreign countries. This means that there will be a silent period of one hour each night for the entire North American continent to listen for broacasting from most of the European countries, the islands in the Pacific, New Zealand and so forth.

The names, call letters and wave lengths of the foreign stations it is possible that you may hear will be announced at a later date, both by Crosley WLW station and in the press.

Very elaborate arrangements have been completed by Radio Broadcasting Magazine, the originator of the International Test idea, with its correspondents in most countries of the world, especially with the "Wireless World and Radio Review" of London and "La Presse" of Montreal.

If plans now being worked upon materialize, almost every country on the globe will take part in these tests. Who knows but that some such undertaking as this, which will put us in intimate touch with the people of other lands, will go a long way toward promoting international undertaking and good will.

LESSON NO. 9

LIGHTING THE HALLS AND STAIRS

The main hall, where we welcome our guests, may be large or it may be small, but probably nothing will light it as well as an attractive ceiling fixture equipped with a total of from 50 to 100 watts of lamp bulbs.

If the hall is large enough, we may add a pair of bracket fixtures on the wall at either side of a pretty mirror, or we may use a small table lamp, or candlesticks on a console table. When we do this, the lights should be well shaded, of course, and not too bright. Economy suggests the use of 15 or 25-watt bulbs.

Upstairs halls or long private halls are usually best lighted with small ceiling fixtures equipped with 25 or 50-watt bulbs. In many homes, however, bracket fixtures may be used on the walls to give satisfactory lighting. When the house is wired, the lights in the halls shoulld be put in so that they may be lighted from either upstairs or downstairs.

The lighting fixtures in the halls ought to be placed so that they will light the stairway as well as the hall. In large homes where the stairs turn or where there is a landing half way up, it may be advisable to install a small fixture at the turn to be sure the stairs are well lighted.

LIGHTING THE OUTSIDE OF THE HOUSE

Many homes that are being built now have a duplex convenience outlet installed on the porch so that portable lamps may be used to make an outdoor living room in pleasant weather.

In every home some lighting is needed at the main entrance and other doorways for convenience and safety at night. Lanterns of weatherproof metal are commonly used either as bracket or ceiling fixtures.

The driveway to the garage will need some light, perhaps from a fixture attached to the outside of the house. The lighting inside the garage should be installed so that it may be lighted from either the house or the garage. In more elaborate homes the gateway and drive may be equipped with ornamental lanterns or posts.

For outdoor fixtures a 50-watt bulb will usually be large enough. However, if a large space is to be lighted, as much as 100 watts may be needed.

PROPER WIRING

Hidden in the walls of a home are the wires that permit us to enjoy the comforts of electric service. They are out of sight and we never think about them, but they are very important for they may limit our ability to use electricity for lighting and for appliances conveniently.

Every year we add something to the electric equipment in the home. Perhaps this year it is a new table lamp, last year it may have been a wash machine or a toaster, next year it may be a fan or a curling iron. Five years ago when the house was wired, we did not plan for these new things, and now we remove a lamp bulb to connect one of them, thus depriving ourselves of needed light and, spoiling the appearance of the room by the unsightly cord which dangles from the socket.

The wiring in most homes can be made to give greater service today by the addition of convenience outlets (usually the duplex type, which permits two things to be connected to one outlet). In general, we need one of these for each fifty square feet of floor in the room. These may be placed in the wall near the floor or at a height of three or four feet above the floor to save bending over when we connect an appliance. Another feature of the properly wired home is a wall switch to control each of the principal lighting fixtures.

As a protection against accident, the main switch, which controls all the lights in the house, and the fuses should be in a modern metal box so designed that there can be no possibility of an electric shock.

Every householder is interested in these devices for comfort and convenience in the use of electric service, but he should not attempt to make changes in the wiring of the house without the services of a competent electrician who understands the precautions which must be taken for safety. There are specific rules in every city designed for the protection of the public and all changes in wiring must be made according to these rules.

Horse Racing Drew To a Close Today

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 24 (AP).—Horse racing in Kentucky for 1924 came to a close today.

The race meeting here probably showed the smallest percentage of winning favorites of any meeting in the country in many years, horsemen are agreed. The thoroughbreds ran truer to form in the spring meetings in Kentucky this year. At Churchill Downs and Latonia, the percentage of winning favorites was the lowest in the history of the two courses.

What we can't see is how a one-armed man gets married, unless he learns to steer an auto with his knees.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT modern shoe dealers are persistent advertisers. They carry in stock the best for wear and style. If they did not, they would not dare advertise.

THAT they have wonderful shoes for men and children, made of the best materials, and in perfect harmony with style and pocket-book.

THAT well advertised lines of shoes are products of known value; the kind that give satisfaction.

THAT shoes of uncertain value are seldom advertised because they do not give satisfaction.

THAT too little attention is paid to foot comfort. Good shoes are made to fit every foot.

THAT good shoes outwear poor shoes by many months.

THAT shoe dealers advertise for the purpose of attracting you to their stores so they can have the opportunity of showing you their shoes and proving to you that their shoes will give you the best value for your money.

YOU should buy shoes only from the merchants whose advertisements you find in local papers. It will save you time, worry and money and assure you of getting comfortable shoes.

RENTENPFENNIG TO GO.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP).—The "Rentenpfennig," a brass coin issued by the Rentenbank as a stopgap during the transition from the inflation period to complete stabilization, will soon be a thing of the past. The German government has just authorized the issuance of 20,000,000 marks' worth of pfennig coins which are to have the prewar name of "Reichspfennig."

South America Interests Japs

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 24.—(AP).—The economic future of Peru being largely dependant on immigration, because the native population is small, the country today takes an especial interest in the foreigners who journey from their own lands to settle within the boundaries of the Peruvian republic.

The question of the coming of Japanese has attracted attention, particularly as the Japanese quotas have lately increased. Also it is reported here that a company has been formed in Japan to encourage emigration to both Peru and Brazil. There is a feeling locally that the moment has come to regulate immigration from Japan, that within Peruvian borders Peru should safeguard her own interests. The ability of the Japanese successfully to engage in various enterprises, and in some cases to undersell native merchants, coupled with the fact that they are clannish and slow in assimilating the customs of the country, has not made them popular here. Nevertheless a treaty of friendship between Peru and Japan, signed in Washington in 1895 and subsequently revoked, recently has been renewed.

Serious damage was narrowly averted this afternoon by a fire that was confined to the workshop of the Universal garage here. Damage is estimated at $1,000, fully covered by insurance.

G. O. P. WOULD KICK INSURGENTS OUT

Congressman Treadway Favors Expulsion From Important Committee Assignments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP).—The possibility of some concerted action by republicans to "read out of the party" in the newly elected congress the insurgent group, that has been privately favored by some became more sharply focused with an open declaration on the matter from members of both groups.

Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, declared after a visit to the White House that he favored eliminating the insurgents in important republican committee assignments in organizing the new congress to meet, unless called in special session, a year from next month.

Asserting that he thought the republicans would be "to wise" to attempt such action, Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgents later asserted his group "neither feared" expulsion from the republican ranks "nor did they care about it, or welcome it."

The progressives, he said expect to continue their fight for progressive legislation and intend to do all in their power to bring this country back to a normal moral basis.

In the future, as in the past, the Wisconsin member added, "the progressives propose to support such legislation as they believe to be in the best interests of the country.

Mr. Treadway said the insurgent group should be classed among the minority and given committee assignments accordingly. He added "we have suffered long enough from their committe influence and they shoud no longer have controlling places.

In connection with the discussion some republican members who privately have expressed the opinion that the insurgents should be expelled from the republican ranks have pointed out that the several members of the group will hold important places on house committees.

Mr. Nelson, it is pointed out is a member of the rules committee and chairman of one of the election committee assignments held by the members of the insurgent group, include Representative Lampert of Wisconsin, chairman of the patents committee: Representative Frear of Wisconsin a member of the ways and means committee, and Representative Voight of Wisconsin, a member of the agricultural committee.

BLACKSTONE IS KING OF HUMBUG

Glories in the Fact That He is a Great Showman, Even as P. T. Barnum Was.

Blackstone is a man of many parts: Inventor, magician, chemist, savant, author, entertainer, millionaire—but above all a showman is he. Of his accomplishments he is most proud to know that he is a showman, as was the great P. T. Barnum—showman and humbug. Blackstone glories in his powers to fool his patrons even as did the great Yankee circus king. Here is Blackstone's own conception of the art of bamboozling the proletariat and making the pros like it

"All show business is bunk. It is bogus in so far as it is all make believe The magic art is the result of ability to fool folks. Modesty forbids me to tell how much money I have made in deceiving the American public, but if I don't invest in oil stocks or German marks, I will be able to stall on the wolf to past the proverbial span of man's existence.

I fool my audiences because they want to be fooled That is where the entertainment comes in Nearly every magic fan thinks he or she knows how the various tricks and illusions are performed. Not one in a hundred guess the correct manner. One who will solve one trick will miss the next one When appearing before King George, by special command at Wind or three years ago, I was greeted by His Majesty and an entourage of some fifty or sixty persons As part of the entertainment I requested that those present write out their ideas as to how each trick was accomplished. I presented no less than 20 different experiments. Two correct answers were turned in, each from a different person. My creed is to make my performance as mystifying as possible but such excellent quality that all will say they were not fooled about its being a wonderful entertainment. Above all else my show was, is, and always will be "clean."

Religious Book Was "Best Seller"

FREIBURG, Nov. 24. (AP) — Racy topics do not always furnish the year's best sellers in German literature. Last year's selling record was held by Biship Keppler's religious book, "Mehr Freude" (More Joy), which scored 175,000 copies on the first edition. The demand was so large that translation was made into Bohemian, Danish, Norwegian, English, Flemish, French, Italian, Dutch, Portuguese, Swedish, Spanish and Hungarian.

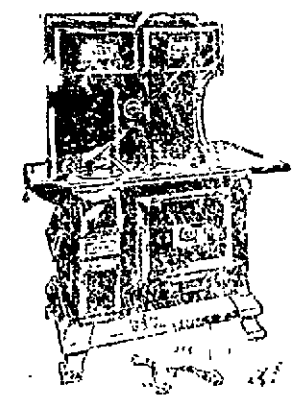
Cole's Master Malleable Iron Range



This is indeed the master of all malleable ranges. It is unquestionably the finest range of its kind on the market. We are very proud of it. Nothing but the very best obtainable materials and workmanship are considered. To bear our name and reputation for quality this stove must be a high-grade malleable range in the strictest sense of the word. We are not content to rivet or bolt a few malleable castings to a sheet steel body and call it a malleable range. The entire body is from heavy malleable iron. Every casting subject to mechanical stress or strain is of malleable iron.
